HOW SHALL WE PAY FOR THE WAR?

A Constructive Criticism on the House Revenue Bill.

LOANS BETTER THAN TAXES

Five Reasons Why Excessive Taxes at the Outset of War Are Disadvantageous—Great Britain Example Worthily of Emulation—How the Taxes Should Be Apportioned.

By EDWIN R. A. SELIGMAN,
McVikar Professor of Political Economy, Columbia University.

On May 23, 1917, the House of Representatives passed an act "to provide revenue to defray war expenses and for other purposes." In the original bill as presented by the Committee of Ways and Means, the additional revenue to be derived was estimated at $1,810,420,000. The amendment to the income tax, which was tacked on to the bill during the discussion in the House, was expected to yield another $40,000,000 or $50,000,000.

In discussing the House bill, two problems arise:
I. How much should be raised by taxation?
II. In what manner should this sum be raised?

I. How Much Should Be Raised by Taxation?
How was the figure of $1,800,000,000 arrived at? The answer is simple. When the Secretary of the Treasury came to estimate the additional war expenses for the year 1917-18, he calculated that they would amount to some $2,000,000,000, of which $800,000,000 was to be allotted to the allies, and $2,000,000,000 was to be utilized for the domestic purposes. Thinking that it would be a fair proposition to divide this latter sum between loans and taxes, he concluded that the amount to be raised by taxes was $1,800,000,000.

There are two extreme theories, each of which may be dismissed with scant courtesy. The one is that all war expenditures should be defrayed by loans, and the other is that all war expenditures should be defrayed by taxes. Each theory is untenable.

It is indeed true that the burdens of the war should be borne by the present rather than the future generation; but this does not mean that they should be borne by this year's taxation. Meeting all war expenses by taxation makes the taxpayers in one or two years bear the burden of benefits that ought to be distributed at least over a decade within the same generation.

In the second place, when expenditures approach the gigantic sums of present-day warfare, the tax-only policy would require more than the total surplus of social income. Were this absolutely necessary, the ensuing havoc in the economic life of the community would have to be endured. But where the disasters are so great and at the same time so unnecessary, the tax-only policy may be declared impracticable.

Secretary McAdoo had the right instinct and highly commendable courage in deciding that a substantial portion, at least, of the revenues should be derived from taxation. But when he left upon the plan $60-65 per cent. of the war expenses to be met by domestic war expenditures by taxes, the question arises whether he did not go too far.

The relative proportion of loans to taxes is after all a purely business proposition. Not to rely to a large extent on loans at the outset of a war is a mistake.

Disadvantages of Excessive Taxes.
The disadvantages of excessive taxes at the outset of the war are as follows:
1. Excessive taxes on consumption will cause popular resentment.

2. Excessive taxes on industry will disarrange business, damp enthusiasm and restrict the spirit of enterprise at the very time when the opposite is needed.

3. Excessive taxes on incomes will deplete the surplus available for investments and interfere with the placing of the enormous loans which will be necessary in any event.

4. Excessive taxes on wealth will cause a serious diminution of the incomes which are at present largely drawn upon for the support of educational and philanthropic enterprises. Moreover, these sources of support would be dried up precisely at the time when the need would be greatest.

5. Excessive taxation at the outset of the war will reduce the elasticity available for the increasing demands that are soon to come.

Great Britain's Policy.
Take Great Britain as an example. During the first year of the war she increased taxes only slightly, in order to keep industries going at top notch. During the second year she raised by new taxes only 9 per cent. of her war expenditures. During the third year she levied by additional taxes (over and above the pre-war level) only slightly more than 27 per cent. of her war expenses.

If we should attempt to do as much, in the first year of the war as Great Britain did in the third year it would suffice to raise by taxation $1,200,000,000. If, in order to be absolutely on the safe side, it seemed advisable to increase the sum to $1,500,000,000, this should, in our opinion, be the most sum.

Her Little Joke.
There was a wayward, rebellious and charming congressional creature recently who, as the fateful hour approached when she was to be "at home," suddenly put on her hat and bolted, panic stricken, around the block. But when, forcing herself to pass her house again, she saw a group of ladies ringing her doorbell she impulsively joined them and went in. Was she not, like them, a congressman's wife with a right to call anywhere, even upon herself? They sat down and while waiting for the hostess chatted agreeably. And when at the end of the callers began to comment wonderingly upon the continued absence of the lady of the house our heroine smiled enigmatically. "I don't believe," she said, "we had any of us better wait any longer for her. I hear"—she paused, and she spoke with meaning—"I hear she's very odd!" She rose, and the other ladies with her. She went on with them to call on another congressman's wife.

Catching the Elusive Son-in-law.
The busiest time in mother's life is when she is drawing in the net that contains a son-in-law. Time and again perhaps she has pulled it up only to find it empty, but now she sees the prize flopping in the seine. And it is such a fine catch! It is doubtful whether the son contains another half so good. Poor pa looks on, but he can give no assistance. If he should try to do anything he would be sure to let the prize get away. Finally son-in-law is safe in the boat, and mother pulls for the shore. We said pa gave no assistance, but we were not thinking—paid for the net—Claude Catlan in Fort Worth Star Telegram.

The Reason Why.
He was running a small provision store in a newly developed district, and the big wholesale dealers found him very backward in payment of his account.

They sent him letter after letter, each more politely threatening than the last. Finally they sent their representative down to give him a last chance.

"Now," said the caller, "we must have a settlement. Why haven't you sent us anything? Are things going badly?"

"No. Everything is going splendidly. You needn't worry. My bankers will guarantee me all right."
"Then why haven't you paid up?"
"Well, you see those threatening letters of yours were so well done that I've been copying them out and sending them around to a few customers of my own who won't pay up, and I've collected 'society' all winter. As accounts, I was only holding back because I felt sure there must be a final letter, and I wanted to get the series complete."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

You can rely on Cardui. Surely it will do for you what it has done for so many thousands of other women! It should help. "I was taken sick, writes Mrs. Mary E. Veste, of Madison Heights, Va. 'I got down so weak, could hardly walk... just staggered around. I read of Cardui, and after taking one bottle, or before taking quite all, I felt much better. I took 3 or 4 bottles at that time, and was able to do my work. I take it in the spring when run-down. I had no appetite, and I commenced eating. It is the best tonic I ever saw.' Try Cardui.

HIS DREAM CAME TRUE

By ELLIE LEE.

Alice was beginning to realize a long-cherished dream of an old-fashioned flower garden. When the last brown beds of these earth had been smoothed and the tiny border-plants had been transplanted by her rheumatic old negro gardener, she surveyed the result with a satisfied smile.

At precisely the same moment, David Markham, seated at his desk in the town's biggest law firm, was saying to himself that he could not live without Alice. Two weeks before Alice had told him that it would be easily possible, as well as desirable, for her to live without him. Their quarrel, resulting from David's demand that she refrain from publicly endorsing equal suffrage, was probably responsible for Alice's undivided attention to her garden-making.

The county convention was to take place the next day, and Alice was to appear before it as one of a committee of three women who would request the convention's endorsement of equal suffrage. David, though younger than the other members of the "old guard," was a local leader, but his efforts to prevent giving a hearing to the woman's committee had been fruitless.

The morning session of the county convention was given up to reports from township chairmen and to other routine work. After the midday dinner at the Watkins' house, each man went back to the afternoon session sanguine of carrying the day according to his desires. Not a man of them suspected that the suffrage committee had collaborated with Mrs. Watkins in arranging the menu for that satisfying dinner, so they did not realize that an unseen wire connected their optimistic frame of mind with the appearance of the woman's committee immediately after the afternoon session closed.

First, Mrs. Worthington spoke. Being the middle-aged mother of four successful sons, there was some weight to her argument.

Second came Mrs. Ellis. She was a handsome matron who had been a trained nurse before her marriage.

Third, Alice Harlow spoke, and chivalry was her theme. David Markham, tightened his lips, so as to prevent releasing the bitter words within. At first he had been sure that Alice, even a surreptitious glance showed him that he had never seen her look more bewitching. And her speech was brief.

Concluding, she said: "Is chivalry built upon such an unstable foundation that it falls tottering to earth merely because a woman walks into a booth and puts a piece of paper into a box as a means of appealing or disapproving of certain public servants? We women well know that it is not."

It was significant that just at this point she dropped her face handkerchief, and of the few men who darted for it, David was the successful captor who restored it to her.

"I have planted a garden of flowers," she resumed. "I shall have to use much care to keep it all in good condition and to keep away harmful insects. That care will require proper tools. All over the world women are planting gardens—home gardens, school gardens, kitchen gardens, civic gardens—gardens that grow human flowers. They need the ballot as a tool to keep conditions such that their human flowers may grow strong. Is it chivalrous to withhold this tool? We women do not ask to usurp the place of men; we ask you to help us step from the pedestal where your well-meant but misguided chivalry has so long kept us, and we ask you to understand that what we want is to walk and work side by side with you. Knowing the underlying principle of justice in the heart of the American man, we know that what we ask will be given us."

After the completion of the speeches the carefully planned psychological moment came and went with the convention's unanimous endorsement of equal suffrage. David's "ago" was given in an unnatural voice, and he had a trembling feeling in his legs as he rose with the other men while the ladies passed from the room.

As Alice passed through the door she turned her head, pressed her face handkerchief to her lips and flashed upon David a forgiving glance that made him entirely oblivious of what transpired for the next few minutes. He gave himself up to a brief but ecstatic dream of days to come when he would be a welcome visitor to the summer house in her flower garden and subsequently his dream came true.

A Tart Waitress.

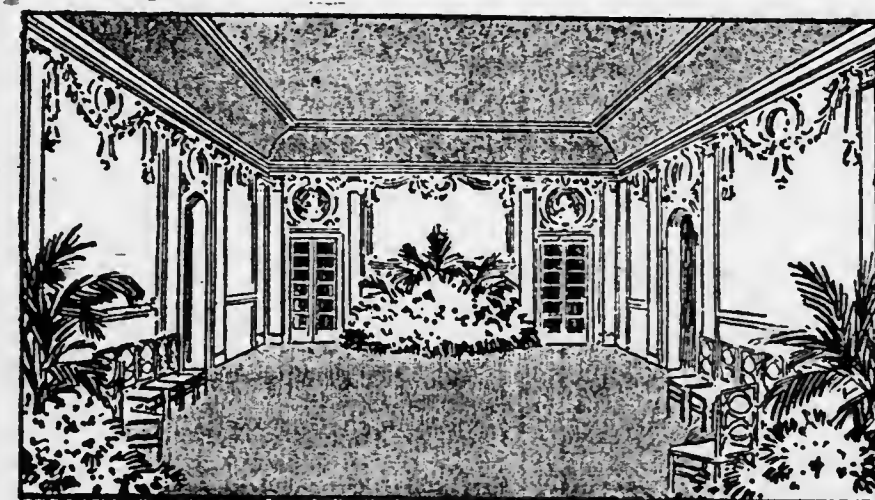

Dr. Oliver Hobson was defending certain appropriations. "Don't call these appropriations pork barrel appropriations," he exclaimed. "Though Pootentia numbers only 517 souls, she can appropriate a $90,000 post office as well as any bloated metropolis could."

"Cut appropriations of this kind, gentlemen, and you would ruin voters as cruelly as the dummei was wounded at the Pootentia house."

"This drummer, being very fond of corn on the cob, ate ear after ear. Finally the pretty waitress, after she'd brought him his fourteenth or fifteenth ear, said tartly:

"Don't you think you could save half a dollar or so a day if you boarded at a lively stable?"—Washington Star.

The Victor system of changeable needles enables you to meet every acoustic condition

A "fixed point" can't be perfect for all conditions! If it is perfect for the ball-room it won't be perfect in the den.

If it's perfect in the den it will be inadequate in the ball-room. If it is perfect for one music-room it will not be perfect for another music-room which is different in size, acoustic properties and furnishings.

Consequently changeable needles are best, because—in no other way can reproduced music be perfectly suited to every home and to any room in that home without in the least degree changing the artist's interpretation. That can be done only with the Victrola because of the changeable needles. It can not be done by any sound reproducing instrument which is unable to adapt itself to its own particular surroundings.

There are Victrolas in great variety of styles from $15 to $300—easy terms if desired. Come in and we'll gladly play any music you wish to hear and demonstrate the advantages of the Victor system of changeable needles.

IHC Wagons Are Tough

Webber New Bettendorf Columbus or Steel King

Did you ever notice when one of the wheels of your loaded wagon dropped into a rut or bumped over a stone how the seat springs gave and rebounded, almost throwing you off? That is an indication of the shock and strain that the rigid spokes and axles have to stand whenever the wagon is traveling over a rough road or through a field. IHC wagons take these stresses and strains as a matter of course. From neckyoke to tail board they are built of selected, air-dried lumber, strong and tough, bending to strains but coming back as straight and true as ever when the load is removed. Besides being tough, IHC wagons are light running. The wheels have just the right pitch and gather, and run true. All skeins and skein boxes are paired. The running gear is assembled by skilled workmen whose wages depend as much on the quality as on the quantity of the work they turn out. Consequently, IHC wagons are practically all of the same high standard of quality throughout.

Webber and Bettendorf wagons have wood gears; New Bettendorf and Steel King have steel gears. To learn which IHC wagon is best suited to your work and conditions, write our nearest office for interesting catalogues. Quality of the product, 50 per cent. Arrangement, 25 per cent. Number of products, 25 per cent.

A competent judge will be secured to judge all of the products shown.

7. No Club Boy will be allowed to enter the contest who has not a record book filled out.

8. Community Club Exhibits shall include all farm products grown within the community, and may include poultry if so desired, but room can not be supplied for other animals.

9. Any stock may be exhibited, if it is so desired, but no premiums can be offered for these classes. In case any animals are exhibited the owners must arrange for the care of such animals.

Any further information needed will be gladly given upon application to the County Agent or the Canning Agent.

Several letters have been received from our soldier boys by the people here who are interesting themselves in raising funds to provide needed things for our soldiers. Everybody in camp wants the folks of the county to know how grateful they feel, and ask The Record to say they will never forget the thoughtfulness and generosity extended them.

Main and Main-cross streets near the square are to be oiled at once, and it is likely that the good work will be extended, when the benefits are realized.

Now we have 95 per cent. of our first-call men in camp, and our interest is broadened and deepened.

Miller-Duncan Wedding.

Miss Elizabeth Miller, of Vermont Hills, and Mr. Carl Duncan, of this city, were married in Evansville last Thursday afternoon, and returned here at once, where they have rooms over the opera house. Mr. Duncan has been here several months, manager of the Queen theatre, and has made a host of friends. His bride is an intellectual, progressive woman and will find a hearty welcome here.

Methodist Conference Closes.

The annual sessions of the Louisville Conference of the M. E. Church South, were held at Hopkinsville, closing last Sunday night. Business of vast importance was transacted, and great development of the church was shown. On account of the war there were few changes made in appointments as possible, but many were forced. The local pastor, Rev. Paul Powell, having resigned to enter the Y. M. C. A. army service, left a vacancy, which has been supplied by appointment of Rev. W. C. Frank, who has been stationed at Beaver Dam, and who stands high in the church. He and his family will have a warm welcome here. Following are the appointments in

There have been several light frosts, but no damage done, and as the average killing frost date here is Oct. 22, there is little need of alarm.

Our Postmaster Promoted.

There are being made radical changes in the postoffice department and things are being concentrated. Mr. R. E. Wallace, our postmaster, now has the title "central accounting postmaster," and every postmaster in the county will now make all remittances, orders and reports to him, as they are what is termed district postmasters. This will greatly increase the business done here, and will doubtless add to the salary of this office. The new order is effective since October 1.

There are more than 300 makers of talking machines, but the Victor Talking Machine Co. does more than 40 per cent. of all the business in the world in that line. Roark can quickly show you why.

The Operators And.

The Mine Workers. The operators are again striving to reduce the production of coal in order to force the President's hand.

Now they say they cannot grant the terms demanded by the miners unless the President's prices are increased and fixed at from $3 to $3.50 a ton at the mines.

This, too, when frost is only thirty days ahead of us.

These operators are getting $3 for coal worth at the mines a year ago $1.32.

The President fixed a limit to these exactions, and named $1.95 as a fair wages and profits.

The operators rebel, and refuse even to confer with the miners. They want assurance of $3 for $1.32 coal before they increase wages. Miners are getting 15 cents more for coal in 1917 than in 1916.

If the government yields to this policy of sabotage, the operators should at least be required to divide even with the men their surplus price.

For every 25 cents above the President's price require the operators to pay the miners 12½ cents; for every dollar increase exact for the miners 50 cents.

Do not let the operators hide behind the miners in order to plunder the consumers in safety.—Louisville Post.

Boys in camp are not the only patriots, for Muhlenberg people, in a week after the boys of Camp Taylor had asked for a Victrola, had provided the funds to supply it, and more. The balance of the fund will be sent the boys, to enable them to get other needed items for their comfort and enjoyment. But the Victrola was their first-named need.

Be at the opening of Greenville's first variety store Saturday. Baird & Sumner invite you, and will have great stocks for your inspection. Victrola concert all day.

Many people in the country are preparing to burn wood this winter, on account of the high cost of coal. There are vast quantities of waste wood in all parts of the county, especially where timber is being cut, and it can be had at small cost.

The American Red Cross maintains a Bureau of Casualties, whose function is to notify friends and relatives of casualties among the forces abroad and to act as a medium of communication for Americans held prisoners.

People who attend our Agricultural Fair are going to have their eyes opened by the displays, as old Muhlenberg is surely forging to the front, along all lines, and especially in domestic science and agriculture.

Victor records are recognized as supreme, since every machine made is fitted to play them. The real way is to play Victor records on Victor machines, for best results. Let Roark demonstrate for you.

Mr. Edward S. Slocum, of Illinois has two cars of Idaho sheep here near the depot, and will sell in any quantity, at low prices. Our farmers should buy several carloads, as the county is bare of sheep, and no more profitable animal can be raised. Wool is higher than ever known, and will remain so for many years, and the food values are also high. At least 5,000 sheep are needed in the county, and will prove good money-getters.

Merchants of Greenville are wide-awake and seeking increased business. Trade with them in confident assurance of best goods at lowest prices.

Prices of canned fruits and vegetables are already soaring, and people who have to buy will be in much worse shape than last year.

There is a general scarcity of labor hereabouts, and farmers, especially, need help to harvest their crops.

Mr. C. M. Martin and wife and Mr. G. C. Morgan and wife heard the Bishop in Hopkinsville last Sunday.

Friday and Saturday, October 19 and 20, will be big days in Muhlenberg, as these will be the dates of our Agriculture Fair.

Notwithstanding the large crops, food prices will soar to new heights this year, and nothing should be allowed to go to waste.

Mrs. R. C. Love and Mrs. Chas. A. Williams attended the Methodist conference in Hopkinsville the first of the week.

There are fewer loafers in town than ever known before, and there is no excuse for any, as the demand for labor is great.

Buy a Victrola from Roark on terms as easy as you want to make them.

Send Soldier Boys Victrola.

The boys from Muhlenberg at Camp Taylor asked our people for a Victrola, and in a week the money had been made up and now the boys have the instrument, and are enjoying its many delights. Weather Forecast for Week.

Forecast for the week beginning Sunday, Sept. 30, 1917.—For Ohio Valley and Tennessee: Fair, moderate temperature.

Farmers are short of help, and it is no unusual thing to find them working until midnight in the effort to save their crops.

With all the world depending on America for such a number of things it will necessarily increase our cost of living.

There are no foes, but eager friends of our soldier boys sprang to the call for a Victrola, which the boys are now enjoying.

Mr. Robert Hudspeth, who went out with the first quota to Camp Taylor, arrived home last Saturday, having been rejected on physical grounds. He reports the boys as having a fine time, and doing splendid work. The health of the camp is excellent.

Hear Army Bugle Calls and scores of other great military numbers on Victor records at Roark's.

The second liberty loan, this one for $3,000,000,000 or more, is now being offered the public, and will close on the 27th. The people are responding liberally and gallantly, and it is predicted that the amount will be oversubscribed.

Our soldier boys have what they wanted, and asked for—a Victrola—and they are in "line" with soldiers of all nations, who next to their country, would fight to retain the Victrola, their comfort and inspiration.

The Florence Nightingale Co., a quartet of lady entertainers, will appear at college auditorium tonight the first number of the lyceum course. They are worthy of the large patronage which will be extended.

For rent—two furnished rooms, bath and all modern conveniences, centrally located, with board. Mrs. H. Morton.

Mr. John T. Reynolds is in Louisville attending the annual convention of Kentucky bankers.

Some folks say that money will not buy happiness. Just try a $15 investment in a Victrola at Roark's.

MUHENBERG BOYS

Join Comrades at Camp Zachary Taylor Yesterday Afternoon.

Our second quota of men for service numbering 67, and coming from all parts of the county, gathered here Tuesday, and left on a special train yesterday afternoon, for Camp Taylor, Louisville. They all gathered at the court house at ten o'clock, and friends filled the room. Cheering addresses were made, and the splendid band of the Mac-Taff Stock Co., which is playing at Central City this week, rendered a fine concert, which was much appreciated. This volunteer service by the band was highly patriotic, and appealed to everyone. It was a bunch of fine, high spirited men who enter the military career, and their enthusiasm was catching. Following is a list of the members:

George R. Naught, Ruseau Arnold, Estill Adkins, Prentice Johnson, Otis Craig, Jesse Henry, Sid H. Hardison, Hoyt Rule, Henry R. Newman, Homer L. Grubbs, Dyer Garrett, C. I. Gibbs, Bird Everts, Finis Edwards, Clay Everts, William T. Mount, George W. Mercer, Alonzo McDonald, Clay H. Middleton, Harmon E. Matheny, Estil McPherson, Dock Starn, Herbert C. Smith, William Ball, Claud Rust, Elias Mallory, Virgil E. Pearson, Charles I. Henry, Edward F. Short, Vernon K. Eace, Reuben Corley, Ransom E. Lee, A. J. Wachter, Roy Muir, William Morgan Wynn, James W. R. Skipworth, Elmer Gish, A. Middleton, Tabe Ford, Sherman VanCourer, Herschel Johnson, Willie Pearson, Willie B. Gaddis, Hebert L. Divine, Raymond H. Dwyer, Fate Crafton, T. Marshall Mahoney, Mark Franklin, Sydney Rager, Will A. Tate, Willie Fulkerson, Estil Neale, Claud Leavell, Clarence Johnson, Lloyd O. Sisk, J. L. Underwood, Evan E. Crews, Finis Chatman, Simon P. Peveler, George W. Blackburn, Wace Aht, Franklin B. Robards, Leslie Jewel, Ernest Stewart, C. S. Smith, Walter E. Hancock, Frank Wood, Zella Hendricks, Robert Miller, William Majors, Charlie Bivins, C. S. Englis, John Pentecost and Lewis Hamilton.

New Variety Store, 5, 10, 25c, will be opened next Saturday by Baird & Sumner, next to their old store. Everybody invited.

Old Muhlenberg observed Patriotic Week gloriously last week. Meetings were held in every section of the county, and the attendance everywhere was gratifying. Last Friday was our day here, and in the afternoon at the college campus a vast throng gathered, while at night the court room contained many enthusiastic patriotic citizens. It is sure that great good will result from these gatherings. The schools had a great part in every meeting.

Diphtheria and scarlet fever are ailments appearing in all parts of the county, and the local board of health is sending out warnings in an effort to stop the diseases.

Dr. James Louis Roark is now in the service, and is temporarily located at Camp Lewis, American Lakes, Wash. He hopes to make a visit home before being ordered abroad.

Hopkinsville entertained people from all over Western Kentucky last Sunday, who had gathered there to enjoy the sessions of the Louisville conference.

The Farmers' State Bank has been much improved by new interior decorations, and a new arrangement of the furniture gives much added space that was needed.

Roark sells all styles of Victorolas, from the $15 to the most precious in woods and finishes. Prices run as high as $900.

Muhlenberg soldier boys are already making a fine record, for only three of the seventy-five sent to Camp Taylor have been rejected; while in some counties the rejections have run above ten per cent.

Victrolas are used in the public schools in 6200 cities, towns and villages of this country, from 446 in New York City down to one in many small places, and beside these are other thousands in the rural public schools, denominational parochial, private schools, and conservatories.

Patriotic music in plenty at Roark's.

How Mandolin Tail Pieces Make Pianos Less Costly

THE packers prove by actual figures that sandpaper and soap and other inedible products reduce the cost of beefsteak. Armour states that a steer for which he pays $76.10 is sold, as far as meat is concerned, for $67.90, or $8.20 less than cost. Utilization of by-products furnishes the explanation.

Lyon & Healy make or sell everything known in music; therefore, overhead expense, the fixed cost of doing business, is divided among thousands of items.

General salaries, for instance, are not charged against the Piano Department, but against all the various divisions of the house. Lyon & Healy Pianos have to pay only a trifle towards items of this kind compared with the charge which must be borne by other pianos.

Let us look for a moment in the Lyon & Healy factory. While this enormous building and plant is devoted in a large part to piano making, there is no corner of it which is not used.

Here is a wing of the building devoted to making the Lyon & Healy Harp, which is the standard of the world—and sold all over the globe. Another section is occupied by Brass Instrument makers. Still another division is working on Piano Makers' Tools.

Nearby is a department filled with Mandolin makers. And in an adjoining space there are thousands of Piano Benches in course of construction.

The Lyon & Healy Piano, which retails for $....., and the Lyon & Healy-made Washburn Piano, which retails for $....., have attained such widespread popularity that they are in a class by themselves.

These instruments could not be offered to the public at these figures were it not for the Lyon & Healy organization.

They are the product of not only the finest daylight factory in America, but also of an all-round organization which leads in many different lines of musical merchandise.

Sales of Talking Machines running into large figures, wholesale and retail; sales of sheet music, wholesale and retail, unrivaled in the United States; sales of fine Violins; sales of everything known in music; all reduce the cost of Lyon & Healy Pianos.

Music lovers are invited to avail themselves of this indubitable advantage.

Our Terms—"PLAY AS YOU PAY"

Every Pig Will Mean $50

When the 12c hog was predicted, many were skeptical.

When the 15c hog was predicted they were still more skeptical.

Now that they have seen the 15c hog a reality, they do not laugh when some enthusiastic hog man talks about 20c hogs. Instead they shiver in their boots and wonder where the money is coming from to buy the material that will make that delicious sugar-cured ham, and appetizing breakfast bacon.

They holler and yell about the high cost of living and agitate government control of food prices, call the farmer a crook and horsethief—then hustle over to the nearest garage and pay a twenty per cent advanced price for an automobile—fill it up with John D.'s Elkhart Life at twenty-five or thirty cents a gallon—strap on a couple of spare tires at $50 each that could be bought last year for half the money, and never bat an eye, and for supper they will cut themselves down to one pork chop.

Now don't let them scare you. The law of supply and demand always has regulated the price of commodities and always will.

The whole situation in a nutshell is—the supply of hogs is a minus quantity, and they are going to get higher and higher in price.

Every well-grown pig late this fall, or along in the winter, will net his owner $50 right over the scales.

FARM STOCK

PLACE FOR FARROWING SOWS
That Animal May Not Be Disturbed
She Should Be Kept Separated
From Other Swine.

The less a sow is disturbed at farrowing time the better, and for this reason she should be kept separate from the other swine. While some one should be on hand, unless she needs assistance, it is best to keep away from her. If it does become necessary to help, do it as quietly as possible. As the pigs are not able to take much milk, the flow should not be stimulated for a few days. Give the sow plenty of water, as she is in feverish condition, but take the chill off of it if the day is cold.

It is not necessary to feed the sow for a day or two, and the first feed given should consist of a small amount of this slop, which should be gradually increased as the pigs become able to take more milk. In two weeks' time she should be on full feed, which should consist of a good, laxative, milk-producing ration. There is no better way of feeding the pigs than through the mother, so feed the sow for the greatest amount of milk.

ARRANGE QUARTERS FOR RAM

His Rough Treatment of Ewes Is Source of Great Loss to Farmer
—Keep Him Separated.

Allowing the ram to stay with the ewes through the winter and spring until lambing or shearing time is not always the best practice. It is good for the ram in case the ewes are well fed; he will get the lion's share, occupies the space for three ewes at a time, and roughs and grays the ewes. He will choose to eat where the ewes have peacefully lined themselves up rather than take an open place where feed is untouched, writes H. A. Hayne in National Stockman and Farmer. He stalks about and bunts the ewes out of his way on all occasions.

His rough treatment, bunting his way and crowding up to feed racks is a source of abortions and premature births.

Sheep values justify every care to increase numbers and values of next year's lamb crop.

Better arrange to put his ramship in other quarters than the ewe fold.

That doesn't mean to isolate him in some small, dark, damp corner of the barn basement or to exile him to a back lot without shelter or regular feed.

ERADICATE ALL OX WARBLERS

Hides Are Lessened in Value and Milk
Production Decreased by Presence of Grubs.

When you find small lumps on the back of an animal with round openings in them, squeeze them and the grub that burrows under the hide will be found. These are ox warblers. Kill them, for they are one link in the life cycle of the ox warble fly.

Hides are reduced in value from 1 to 2 cents a pound by the presence of ox warblers. Flesh is sometimes so damaged as to be unfit for sale. Milk production is lessened by the presence of numerous grubs. Cattle in general are annoyed seriously by these warblers. Removing and destroying all the grubs from infested cattle will reduce the number of egg-laying females for next summer.

SUBSTITUTE SILAGE FOR HAY

Can Be Safely and Profitably Done in Rations for Horses and Mules,
Says Missouri Station.

Silage can be safely and profitably substituted for a part of the hay in the ration for work horses and mules at the rate of two pounds for one pound of hay. The conclusion reached by the Missouri station after two years' trials.

When the horse comes in wet with rain, first scrape him, then blanket him, and rub his head, neck, legs and extra blanket in 20 minutes. Change the wet blanket when the horse dries. It is important to have the legs warm and dry.

HAIGHT, THE MIRAGE

By JOSEPH T. KESCEL.

Out in the mining camps of the Southwest Frank Reed was known as "Satan," or for short, "Sate." Short and stout, with a roly-poly figure, bright blue eyes and honest countenance, he did not in the least resemble the picture of his Satanic majesty. His business partner, Harry Haight, known among the camps as the "Mirage," was extremely tall and very thin. "He's like a mirage, 'cause you ain't dead sure whether it's something real or not," an old prospector had aptly expressed it.

Their occupation was the same—that of mining engineers—but outside of working hours they devoted most of their time to thinking up practical jokes to play upon each other.

"Sate" was in the office alone, planning a new map of the mining district, while the "Mirage" was doing some work away from town. The tinkle of the telephone bell caused the roly-poly man to reach for the receiver. His face brightened at the words, "Is that you, Sate?"

"Yes-s-s! Oh, yes, Mrs. Thompson. I didn't recognize your voice at first," he chuckled into the transmitter. "Your niece, Alice, coming on the morning train? Hubby busy? Want me to go with you to meet her? Certainly, with pleasure, no trouble at all. I'll call for you thirty minutes before train time in the automobile. Good-by."

Even above the grinding brakes and release of air could be heard a woman's clear voice from an open car window calling, "Here I am, auntie—over here." The train came to a full stop, the vestibules were opened and a dainty foot tripped lightly down the steps to the platform. Two dainty figures embraced each other. "Aunt Molly!" "Alice!" "Oh, you dear, it is so good to see you."

"Oh, excuse me, Alice," broke out Mrs. Thompson suddenly, "I want you to meet my friend 'Sate.' I beg your pardon," she rippled on, noticing the girl's questioning look. "We call him 'Sate,' but his right name is Mr. Reed." Bending over the wheel as the machine sped toward Mrs. Thompson, he heard the rippling laughter from the tonneau. "Didn't think there were any like that left back East," he thought to himself. "She's a dartin' and looks better than bonanza ore to me."

The annual ball of the Golden Quecua Mining company was the social event of the year. The main camp hall was ablaze with light and its freshly waxed floor shone like polished sun.

The grand march was announced, whereupon the joyous couples immediately formed in procession, their impatient feet beating time to the music. Miss Seabold's escort smiled, as he thought of the joke he had framed up on his business partner and the young lady by his side.

The "Mirage" appeared, his tall figure easily overtopping the few men standing near the smoking-room door.

"He is here! See that tall man over there—that's the 'Mirage,'" State eagerly remarked. "Too bad he's so deaf. It will be necessary for you to speak loudly. You will not forget this when you meet him?"

When the "grand march" was finished, "Sate" hurried to greet his partner with a hearty handshake.

"Who was that I saw you with a few moments ago?" asked the "Mirage."

"The young lady I wrote to you about staying over at the Thompsons. You'll have to speak loudly to her—her hearing's not very good. Too bad too, for she's a pippin."

Hooking an arm into his partner's, "Sate" conducted him to the girl and shouted a cordial introduction.

Miss Seabold's pretty face flushed scarlet and her laughing brown eyes were troubled. Why had Mrs. Thompson deserted her? People looked at them, first inquiringly and then with amusement. The face of the "Mirage" matched her own in redness and his blue-gray eyes showed the agony he was in.

The girl's high-pitched voice was plainly heard above the noisy chatter as she replied to some question directed at her in the loud, roaring tones of the man.

It was too much. "Sate" was obliged to make for the smoking room, where he dropped into a large armchair, his sides shaking with mirth. Numerous friends crowded around him and asked the reason for his strange behavior.

"Let me at him! Let me at him!" brushing the crowd to one side. With a howl of rage he grasped "Sate" by the collar, jerked him up and slammed him back in the chair.

Friends hurriedly interceded, and led his struggling partner away.

"Some hostile, wasn't he boys? So long, fellows. It's my dance with her, and if she's as hostile as the 'Mirage,' I'm saying good-by for keeps."

His last statement was entirely correct. She with the laughing brown eyes sat beside the "Mirage" at the table and a year later walked beside him in the main church aisle, while "Sate" and Mrs. Thompson followed close behind.

What sculpture is to a block of marble, education is to a human being.—Addison.

WAYS WITH EGGS.

The omelet is a general favorite and almost any kind will be well received.

As eggs are now becoming more plentiful and cheaper in price we may occasionally indulge in a well-made omelet.

Spanish Omelet.
—Separate the whites and yolks of six eggs; beat three table-spoonfuls of cold water with the yolks, seasoning with a half teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of pepper. Stir in the stiffly beaten whites very lightly.

Have ready a steel omelet pan, very hot and lightly greased with a table-spoonful of butter. When the omelet is well set on the bottom, place in the oven to cook on top; then fold over and serve with tomato sauce well seasoned.

To make the sauce, use a can of tomato, a chopped onion, salt and paprika and a table-spoonful of chopped green peppers. Cook until soft and then strain. Place a table-spoonful of butter in a saucepan; when bubbling hot add a table-spoonful of cornstarch; cook until thoroughly cooked, add to the sauce and pour over the omelet.

For those who enjoy a sweet omelet, the following prepared as above with these additions, is very good: Place a half cupful of blanched almonds in the omelet pan just before turning in the omelet. Give the almonds a little time to become hot and covered with butter, but do not let them brown or the later cooking will burn them, then turn in the omelet and proceed as before, fold the omelet and surround with a hot maple syrup.

The combination is especially delicious, as the nuts are crisp and a delicate brown.

Holland Eggs.—Beat four table-spoonfuls of flour with a teaspoonful of baking powder and sweet milk to make a thick batter. Add three or four well-beaten eggs; thin with a little milk and pour into a hot, buttered frying pan. Cover and set over a good fire. Slip a spatula under the sides and edges and when light and puffy turn the whole cake deftly. When brown slip on to a hot plate, butter and sprinkle with maple sugar.

TOAST AND TOAST MAKING

A good piece of toast is not made without knowledge. A poor piece of toast carelessly prepared is most unwholesome and indigestible.

Bread for toasting should be at least 24 hours old and cut, then placed in the oven to displace some of the moisture before toasting.

Then toast brown on both sides. A crisp, dry piece of toast is well masticated in the mouth, which gives it its good start in digestion. Zwieback, or twice-baked bread, is especially good for the sick, as it is browned until all the moisture is thrown off and it is crisp to the center.

Toast water is often given as a drink in intestinal trouble and is prepared by soaking toast in water, straining the water and serving it with, or without, lemon juice and sugar.

Milk Toast.—For those who like toast dropped into hot milk slightly seasoned with salt and butter the old-fashioned method used by our grandmothers in making toast called milk or creamed toast may not be liked, but there is no more early way of serving it if you have early learned to enjoy it.

Prepare also crisp brown toast, slip the edges in hot milk, and butter generously. Prepare a white sauce, using as rich milk as is possible to obtain, or a mixture of cream and milk. To a pint of milk take two table-spoonfuls of butter and when it is melted and bubbling hot add two table-spoonfuls of flour, and when mixed add a pint of rich milk; cook until smooth.

Arrange the bread slice on a platter in a tureen and pour over the hot cream sauce. Season with salt, and for a change stir in a half cupful of finely grated cheese. Let it melt before pouring over the toast.

Grape Toast.—Butter crisp toast that has been moistened around the edges with boiling water, then pour over the following: Melt a table-spoonful of butter, add a half table-spoonful of cornstarch, and when well mixed add a cupful of grape juice. If serving hot a slice or two of toast. Cook this until it has thoroughly cooked the starch, then pour over the hot buttersauce and serve hot.

Called Her Family TO HER BEDSIDE

Six Years Ago, Thinking She Might Die, Says Texas Lady, But Now She Is a Well, Strong Woman and Praises Cardui For Her Recovery.

Royce City, Tex.—Mrs. Mary Kilman, of this place, says: "After the birth of my little girl...my side commenced to hurt me. I had to go back to bed. We called the doctor. He treated me...but I got no better. I got worse and worse until the misery was unbearable...I was in bed for three months and suffered such agony that I was just drawn up in a knot... I told my husband if he would get me a bottle of Cardui I would try it... I commenced taking it, however, that evening I called my family about me... for I knew I could not last many days unless I had a change for trial.

the better. That was six years ago and I am still here and am a well, strong woman, and I owe my life to Cardui. I had only taken half the bottle when I began to feel better. The misery in my side got less... I continued right on taking the Cardui until I had taken three bottles and I did not need any more for I was well and never felt better in my life... I have never had any trouble from that day to this."

Do you suffer from headache, backache, pains in sides, or other discomforts, each month? Or do you feel weak, nervous and fagged-out? If so, give Cardui, the woman's tonic, a trial.
